TRUMAN URGES 4-POINT LABOR PROGRAM TO CONTROL STRIKES

M'Gregor Offers Bill to Cut Income Tax

Proposes Plan For $500 Hike In Exemptions

Congressman Prepares Other Measures To Set Up Debt Payment Funds, Give Vets Terminal Leave Pay.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor, representing Richland county and the 17th district, said today in Washington he would introduce in congress bills to increase income tax exemptions, withhold specific amounts annually to pay off the national debt, and allow veterans to cash in their terminal leave bonds.

Rep. McGregor told the News-Journal by telephone he expected to introduce his bill to reduce the national debt in today's session.

The congressman said the income tax amendment would increase surtax exemptions from $500 to $1,000 and exemptions for dependants from $500 to $800.

"The purpose of this bill is to give the fellow in lower income tax brackets some relief from his heavy tax burdens," McGregor said.

Describing the bill to reduce the public debt, he said:

Set Aside 10 Percent.

"The bill would make it law that 10 per cent would be set aside each year from the national income to apply on the debt. We've got to put the government back on a business-like basis."

Under the law, as drafted, Rep. McGregor said the secretary of the treasury would deduct 10 per cent at the end of each fiscal year. The first deduction would be made June 30, 1948, he said.

"That date was chosen because it will not be known until that time what the government's total receipts will be for the coming year," the congressman said.

"Personally, I view the government as an individual, and every self-respecting person tries to pay his debts and budget for them," he said.

"A person with debts worries about them," Rep. McGregor went on. "I think it's about time the government did a little worrying."

Would Amend Act.

The legislation which would permit veterans to cash bonds will be offered as an amendment to the Armed Forces Leave act of 1946.

"After all, we gave money to some foreign countries to pay off their veterans in cash, so why shouldn't we treat our own veterans the same way?" McGregor said.

Record $887,018 Appropriated For 1947 Operation of County

A 1947 appropriation bill totaling $887,018, the largest in the history of Richland county, was approved by the county commissioners this morning. The measure compares with an $843,241 bill approved at this time last year.

Nearly every department of county government received increased funds, largely to finance contemplated salary boosts for employes, higher costs of supplies and to provide replacements in equipment impossible to obtain during the war years.

Contrary to the trend of higher costs in government were the reduced allowances scheduled for several other county services and functions. The bill, prepared by County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, calls for a $3,000 saving in the appropriation for the board of elections and savings totaling $12,500 in blind relief, cattle tuberculosis prevention, and financial and legal examinations of county offices.

Welfare Boost Highest.

Largest increases in appropriations were in the various welfare departments, the children's home funds being hiked from $31,500 to $39,500 and the Soldiers' Relief commission from $18,270 to $28,470.

Similarly, the fund for maintenance of the courthouse and the county jail was boosted from $39,132 to $43,202.

The total figure of $887,018 comprises a general fund of $531,633, as compared with $464,621 last year, and a highway fund of $282,215, compared with $280,000 in 1946. The $64,020 appropriation for the county tuberculosis sanatorium was $4,400 higher than 1946.

$100,000 Balance Remains.

As reported by Wolfe, the county enters 1947 with a balance of approximately $100,000 in the general fund and $60,000 in the county road fund. He said these monies will provide a cushion for paying current obligations until additional receipts are available in the coming months.

He estimated that receipts for county purposes should equal or surpass those of 1946 because of an increase in the county tax value. He included in the receipts fees charged by various offices, which may total $100,000 in 1947.

The saving in blind relief was made possible when the state recently assumed responsibility for such cases. No funds were appropriated for cattle tuberculosis prevention since that task was completed last year for a three-year period. Similarly, examinations of county offices, completed in 1946,

Message Calls For Stringent Economy Move

President Voices Desire For Harmony With GOP Congress During Next 2 Years For Good of Nation.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman asked a Republican-controlled congress today to enact a four-point labor program designed to prevent strikes which stifle the nation's economy.

Appearing in person before a joint session of the senate and house, Mr. Truman proposed:

1. Legislation outlawing the jurisdictional strike as "indefensible."

2. Further legislation banning secondary boycotts which involve "unjustifiable objectives." He said boycotts intended to protect wage rates and working conditions should be distinguished from those furthering jurisdictional disputes.

3. Legislation providing machinery whereby unsettled disputes over existing collective bargaining agreements may be referred "by either party to final and binding arbitration" and extension of facilities within the labor department for assisting collective bargaining.

4. Appointment of a temporary joint congressional commission to make legislative recommendations on the entire field of labor-management relations not later than March 15.

Mr. Truman cautioned congress against "punitive legislation" by saying:

"We must not, in order to punish a few labor leaders, pass vindictive laws which restrict the proper rights of the rank and file of labor."

Republican leaders of the new congress already have proposed labor bills ranging from reenactment of the vetoed Case bill to measures to ban strikes in such essential industries as utilities and coal mining.

The president said the prospect of disagreement between his Democratic administration and the Republican congress on some domestic issues was "inherent in our form of government" and "not to be feared."

"The congress and the president, during the next two years, must work together," Mr. Truman said.

Men who differ, the president said, can still work together sincerely "for the common good." He added:

"We shall be risking the nation's safety and destroying our opportunities for progress if we do not settle any disagreements in this spirit without thought of partisan advantage."

In his 6,000 word speech, the president recommended that:

* * *

Favors Excise Taxes.

Congress take early action to continue throughout the next fiscal year the war excise tax rates, which under the present law, expire next June 30.

Congress cooperate in a program of "stringent economy."

The senate ratify peace treaties for Italy, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary after they are signed next month in Paris.

On this point, he said that further dispute and delay on the treaties would gravely jeopardize political stability in the countries concerned for many years." He added that the government did not regard the pacts as "completely satisfactory."

The policies which the United States pushed in negotiations on these treaties, Mr. Truman said, made it clear it would not consent to settlement "at the expense of principles we regard as vital to a just and enduring peace."

"Our policies will be the same during the forthcoming negotiations next month in Moscow on the German and Austrian treaties and during future conferences on the Japanese treaty."

Turning to atomic energy, the president reiterated that the United States would seek "no monopoly for ourselves or for any group of nations," but only safeguards insuring no nation "will be able to use this power for military purposes."

"In the vigorous and effective development of peaceful uses of atomic energy rests our hope that this new force may ultimately be turned into a blessing for all nations," he said.

Mr. Truman placed upon congress "responsibility for maintaining our armed forces at the strength necessary for our national safety" and renewed his pleas for a universal training program. He also called again for a merger of the armed forces, asserting he would send a separate message soon calling for this.

* * *

Outlines Policies.

On the economic front, Mr. Truman outlined five major policies:

(a) Promotion "of greater harmony" between management and labor.

(b) Restriction of monopoly and unfair business practices, assistance to small business, and promotion of privates enterprise.

(c) "An aggressive program of home construction."

(d) A balanced budget during the next fiscal year with a substantial surplus.

(e) Protection of "a fair level of return to farmers in postwar agriculture."

HOUSEWIFE, 72, KILLS HUSBAND; SAWS UP BODY

Mild-Mannered Little Woman Admits Crime to Police.

NEWARK —(AP)— Laura Belle Devlin, 72, who collects old lace, was held without charge today in the handsaw slaying of her husband whose dismembered body was found scattered in the backyard of their home here.

Police Chief Gail Christman said the mild-mannered little woman told him she cut up 75-year-old Thomas Devlin last week in the parlor of their modest two-story house.

"He tried to kill me so many times that I decided to end his life," Mrs. Devlin was quoted as saying calmly.

"And now can I go home?" she asked the police chief after describing in detail how she first pounded Devlin into unconsciousness with her fists and tried to break his bones with a sickle. She then used the saw to dismember the body, Christman quoted Mrs. Devlin as saying. Burned parts of the body also were found in a stove, Christman stated.

Told she must remain in the Licking county jail, Mrs. Devlin shook her head and made no protest.

Letter Ruse Fails.

Clad in a stocking cap and an old coat, Mrs. Devlin went to police headquarters yesterday with a letter reporting that her husband had died in Philadelphia. Signed "Tom's cousin," the letter said: 'We are going to Ireland" to bury him. The envelope bore no stamp and had a postmark which was drawn in black ink.

Christman and Coroner George Sapp went to the Devlin residence to investigate. There they found parts of a body in the backyard and in an adjoining field. In six other places they discovered piles of human ashes, including several pieces from a human skull.

Confronted by the findings, Mrs. Devlin readily admitted the slaying, Christman said and quoted her as telling this story:

She first tried to kill Devlin with a small kitchen knife, then beat him senseless. As she hacked at his body with a sickle the blade broke. She found the saw and began dissecting the body on the living room rug. She tossed parts into the coal stove.

Asked why she didn't call an undertaker, Mrs. Devlin told Christman:

"I'm awfully sorry I didn't do that."

3 AIR CRASHES KILL 5, HURT 21

(By Associated Press)

Five persons were killed and 21 injured in three plane crashes last night during a sudden snowstorm that engulfed large areas of the east coast.

The worst accident was at Carmel, N. J., where a Nationwide Air Transport Service, Inc., passenger plane crashed in a wooded area, killing the co-pilot and two passengers and injuring 19 other persons.

Among the injured, most of whom were from New England, was William Papaleo, 24, of Hartford, Conn., identified by hospital authorities as Willie Pep, world featherweight boxing champion.

A small private plane bound from Mt. Pleasant, Mich., to Florida, crashed in Scott county, Va., killing its two occupants.

At Jones Beach, bathing resort near New York, 16 persons escaped serious injury as an American Airlines DC-3 two-motor plane made a crash landing on the beach a few feet from the water. Only the pilot and co-pilot were injured and the stewardess and 13 passengers were unhurt.

The freak snowstorm, accompanied by rain and sleet, covered an area estimated by the weather bureau in New York to extend as far as 250 miles from that city.

FIRE DAMAGES TEMPLE

WARREN —(AP)— Smoke and vaporized shoe dye overcame three firemen in a blaze at the Masonic Temple company yesterday. Damage was estimated at $7,000.

Congress In Rush To Pay Vets More

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The rush is on in congress to shell out more billions to veterans.

Lawmakers are tossing bills and getting campaigns under way for such things as:

1. A soldiers' bonus;
2. Immediate cashing of terminal leave bonds, and
3. A boost in government payments to veterans going to school or learning new jobs by working at them.

Eighteen of the first 157 bills received by the house would do something for those who served in the armed forces. These 18 cover programs that might total $20,000,000,000 or $30,000,000,000 in new outlays to ex-GI's.

* * *

Calls Ceiling Unfair.

And Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R., Mass.), the new chairman, is concentrating on plans to keep the house veterans committee busy.

"One of the first things," she told a reporter, "will be to lift the $200 ceiling on allowances for on-the-job training. It is manifestly unfair."

Mrs. Rogers introduced a bill on that. So did several other legislators.

Rep. Landis (R., Ind.), figuring on reintroducing a bonus bill for $1 a day for duty at home and $1.50 for overseas service, said the cost of such payments had been estimated at $4,000,000,000.

Some of the new legislation would go back to help veterans of World War I. Rep. Beckworth (D., Tex.) would extend the pension system to cover partially disabled veterans of that war whose disability was not service-connected.

This would extend to these men the same benefits, ranging from $25 to $100 a month, now granted Spanish-American war veterans.

BABE RUTH HAS NECK OPERATION

NEW YORK—(AP)—Babe Ruth, baseball's 51-year-old home run hitter of yesteryear, was wheeled into the operating room of French hospital shortly before noon for surgical treatment of a neck condition which attendants described as serious.

The hospital would not reveal the exact malady nor would it identify the four doctors who were to operate.

Ruth has been in the hospital since Nov. 26 for what hospital officials said was a sinus condition.

OHIO ASSEMBLY OPENS SESSION

COLUMBUS —(INS)— A session at least six months long was indicated today as the gavel fell at 1:30 p. m. for the official opening of the 97th Ohio general assembly.

The overwhelmingly-Republican legislature found itself in a dilemma—occasioned by campaign promises of reduced taxes and increased expenditures—that may find itself incapable of earlier solution.

As a result, most of the legislators, on checking in, privately predicted that it would be at least June 15 or July 1 before sine die of final adjournment.

The immediate problem facing the solons is the passing of a partial appropriations bill so that payrolls can be met on Jan. 15. All appropriations by the last legislature lapsed at midnight Dec. 31, and a new bill must be passed before the state can spend a cent.

The legislature, required to convene by law the first Monday of the odd-number years, is meeting at the latest date possible—Jan. 6—and hence has only a week to act on the money measure, which two years ago totaled nearly 84 millions and is expected to be even larger this year. It provides funds for six months' state operation, or until the regular appropriations bill is passed after more mature consideration.

Issues Numerous.

The chief problems facing the legislature in its over-all deliberations, in addition to some form of tax reduction, are the problems of more funds for schools and local governments, pay raises to state workers, and a soldier bonus.

In addition, several matters passed over by the last legislature are bound to come up again. They include strip mining control, a unified conservation department bill, pensions for both police and firemen and for judges' retirement, and a fair employment practices act.

The solons were expected to meet only briefly today for organization purposes in their newly-decorated chambers.

'RUSTLERS' LEAVE COWS IN FAIRGROUNDS BARN

Sheriff's deputies today were pressing a search for cattle rustlers who stole two cows from the Jud Day barn on the Mansfield-Lucas road Friday and left them in a horse stall at the county fairgrounds.

A caretaker at the fairgrounds told deputies a man told him yesterday he wished to rent space to store the two animals until he could repair his truck, which he said had broken down.

Deputies expressed the opinion that the cows had been loaded onto a truck after they were taken from the barn early Friday.

Cow tracks were visible from the barn to the highway, then ended abruptly. Sheriff Frank E. Robinson asked public aid in tracing the rustlers.

$1,500,000 ASKED OF TWO LOCAL FIRMS

Big Portal Pay Suits Filed By Unions in Cleveland Federal Court.

Portal-to-portal pay suits totaling $1,500,000 against the Ohio Brass company and Humphryes Manufacturing company had been filed today by union stewards of Local 758, Amalgamated United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers CIO, in the federal district court in Cleveland.

Forrest Payne, business agent of Local 758, said the first suit asking $1,000,000 was filed against the Ohio Brass company by Theodore Seeburger, 17 Bahl avenue, chief steward at the Ohio Brass.

The second suit filed asked $500,000 in back wages from Humphryes and was filed by Marion Gerrell, 194 Rowland avenue, chief steward at Humphryes.

Payne added that the union is preparing a case against the Ideal Electric Manufacturing company.

The actions are the first filed against Mansfield industries since the wave of back-pay suits was started several weeks ago. Actions throughout the nation now total nearly $2,000,000,000. The suits are based on a U. S. Supreme court decision in the Mt. Clemens (Mich.) Pottery company case which held that a statutory work week includes "all time during which an employe is necessarily required to be on the employers' premises."

Payne added that the suits ask back wages "at least three years back" in violation of the industrial pay laws. He defined the portal-to-portal term as any time spent on company property for which the worker does not receive pay.

Payne said the suits are being handled by Samuel Handelman of the Davis and Davis law firm of Cleveland.

SHOUP HEADS BOARD AGAIN

The county commissioners today reorganized their board by naming C. L. Shoup as chairman and then began their work of hiring employes for the coming year.

Shoup, senior GOP member of the Republican-controlled board, won a second term as commissioner last November and his colleagues, John W. Selby, Republican, and Guy F. Stewart, Democrat, chose him as chairman.

Half-way through the task of hiring employes for the coming year, the commissioners were interrupted by a scheduled hearing on the proposed location of a right-of-way for State Route 13 around the Mansfield airport.

Before the hearing began, however, they rehired their clerk, Philip Wolfe; Anton Moritz, custodian of the courthouse; Frank Vidmar and Mrs. Rose Hetler, courthouse janitors; Mrs. Verna Long, courthouse matron; C. H. Hill, county dog warden, and Mrs. Marie Menchan, humane officer.

The commissioners also led the way in granting pay increases as contemplated by most county department heads. In employing the workers hired directly by their office the commissioners allowed salary boosts ranging from $5 to $25 per month.

Wolfe's salary was increased from $245 to $260 and pay boosts for others were: Moritz from $215 to $240; Vidmar from $170 to $180; Mrs. Long from $80 to $85; Mrs. Hetler from $135 to $140; Mrs. Menchan from $190 to $200.

Hill's salary of $205 was unchanged reportedly because of increases in maintenance costs in the dog warden's office.

$2,000 ADDED TO F. H. FUND

The Friendly House building fund was $2,000 greater today, with a total of $36,793 in the campaign coffers and $23,207 to go to reach the $60,000 goal by Jan. 15.

The balance of the goal must be reached in the remaining nine days of the drive. Seventy per cent of the total $235,000 building cost will be borne by Mansfield merchants through the Richland Foundation if the goal is reached.

Paul Endriss, campaign chairman, said today that plans for the final push in the drive will be outlined at 5 p. m. today at a meeting of the campaign committee. He again urged that donors mail or deliver their contributions to the campaign headquarters at the R. E. Moorhead garage, Park avenue west.

Added to the list of contributors today were: Coliseum Roller rink, $25; Richland Electric company, $25; Buchan Auto Supply, $25; Parkway restaurant, $50; Frank Williams Transfer company, $25; and the Toledo restaurant, $10.

The new settlement house will be built on three lots facing North Mulberry street between Aten way and Vale avenues.

TENEMENT FIRE KILLS 6

NEW YORK—(INS)—Four persons were killed today in a fire which swept a six-story tenement house in Harlem. Eleven persons were injured. The fire apparently started on the ground floor.

GOP House Leaders Promise Fast Action On Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)—House Republican tax leaders promised hurry-up action today on legislation to put into effect at once the excise tax cuts now scheduled for July 1.

President Truman cleared the way for the mid-year reduction in excises on jewelry, furs, luggage and some household appliances when he proclaimed the end of World War II hostilities.

Chairman Harold Knutson, R., Minn., of the house ways and means committee said the effect might well be "business stagnation" between now and July 1 because prospective purchasers would hold off until the tax went down.

"In order to bring the matter to an immediate head," Knutson said, "it is my purpose to call the committee together as soon as possible with a view to having reported out immediately a concurrent resolution making such tax reductions immediately effective."

Mr. Truman's action provided for a July 1 cut of from 20 to 10 per cent in the excise rates on furs, jewelry, luggage and cosmetics. In addition, the liquor tax would go down from $9 to $6 a gallon.

Knutson said he had received many letters from businessmen saying the delayed schedule of reductions would "seriously" jeopardize a number of industries. The result, Knutson said, could mean unemployment and actual loss in revenue if buyers hold off.

Meanwhile, House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana foresaw little serious house opposition to Knutson's bill for a 20 per cent cut in income taxes, despite protests from some Republicans that it "put the cart before the horse."

Winchell — On Broadway

Notes of a New Yorker.

A NEW YORK editorialist, who recently shrieked "irresponsible reporting," once relayed this bit of common sense: "Freedom of the press obviously does not carry with it the right to distort facts. But in the exercise of such freedom, the press, being only a human institution, cannot help now and then sinning against the facts, with the best will in the world. The better papers will do everything in their power to serve the truth, but in the course of human events the thing will happen . . . Because the daily newspaper comes out every day; it is not published once a year from a scholar's study."

* * *

Note to the chumps who have been heaving brickbats at us for warning about another war: On Jan. 12, 1944, the state department warned Americans about "the dread certainty of another war," if the Big Four failed to agree.

To date, they certainly haven't.

* * *

Those congressional bigots who are always yapping about aliens who hold gov't jobs—are strangely mum about the Nazi scientists who are now working for the army—and have been promised American citizenship.

* * *

Several American gazettes published an interview with Argentinazi Peron last week in which the Pampas Phony proclaimed his love for peace and liberty . . . The Argentine gov't once informed Hitler it was ready to declare war against the Allies — if Germany would supply them with weapons. But Naziland nixed the offer because they believed Argentina was more useful as a silent partner.

That fact comes from one of the state dept's own reports!

A New York gazette reported that after Gen. McNarney informed a meeting of Germans that 800,000 Nazis would be set free, one German listener complained: "And just to hear that we had to stand in the cold for an hour! We certainly expected a better Christmas present than this!"

To Germans liberty is a meaningless gift; to Americans it is a priceless possession. Americans who fought and died for liberty didn't complain about the cold—at Valley Forge.

* * *

The same army that set Nazis free made public this communique on Jan. 1, 1945: "Allied Supreme Headquarters, confirming reports from the front of a mass slaughter by the Germans of American soldier prisoners, issued today an official statement which said that 115 Americans were murdered in this way soon after the German counter-offensive began. The statement said Americans captured near Malmedy, Belgium, were lined up in ranks six deep and were mowed down by machine gun fire from tanks."

* * *

Talk about irresponsible reporting! The Rankin Un-American Committee's counsel, Ernie Adamson, issued a report about an alleged anti-American plot, and many editors trotted out their biggest headlines for it. Despite the fact that this report did not contain one fact to back the charges — the newspaper stories created the impression that it was a result of the committee's investigation . . . But the next day it was revealed that the committee didn't have anything to do with the Adamson report—it was just his personal pitch to filch a few headlines before he was fired.

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—The severance of big business relations, long maintained under a pretext of sport, between West Point and Notre Dame, is a faint, flickering twitch of the rhinoceros hide of a mean and corrupt but attractive American industry. Successful collegiate football is corrupt because it is hypocritical, as all honest educators know and as the Carnegie Foundation solemnly reported about fifteen years ago. This was not a discovery, even then, for at the turn of the century, when old Skjaisen was rampaging for old Siwash, a toothsome scandal came out of Georgia, where it was discovered that Yankee veterans of the Spanish-American war had tarried over to play football as ringers for the university.

Just about then, too, a young coach named Fielding Yost had been imported from Lafayette and Bucknell, Pa., to Kansas to institute something which later came to be known as "a program" and had brought with him a fearsome yokel from Painted Post, Tenn., who laid low until the Nebraska and Missouri games and then fetched the backs through the line clinging to handles on his belt, to win them both. He disappeared after the Missouri game, which was played at Columbia, Mo., and never saw the bonfires or tasted the barbecue arranged in his honor at Lawrence by the jubilant undergraduates who, in those days, stayed home and got the results by the miraculous electric telegraph. It was woefully reported that his dear old maw had died in the Cumberlands and he had cut short his learnin' to return home, tend the still and shoot revenooers.

So the history of our football has gone, almost from the beginning when the team was a private group who elected their own captain, hired their own coach and fired him if he forgot his mental status. Football, in the pure and primitive stage, was only vaguely acknowledged by the college management. Journeys from New Haven to Princeton or New Brunswick, where Rutgers is, were organized by the young men themselves at their own expense.

I cannot pretend to know the details of its quick evolution into an official activity with its own business and propaganda departments. But, looking back to the 'twenties, I appreciate the qualms of Harvard, Yale and Princeton as they weakened under temptation, but, for their consciences, refused to roof their press coops or even provide electric lights for us ink-stained and often drenched or frozen wretches of the fourth estate. They told themselves that if they did this they would be pandering to the base interest of an undesirable element, that is, the public, and yielding a measure of their privacy by encouraging general publicity.

MEANWHILE, however, they were counting the money, turning the crank and grinding out mimeograph material and had set up a reasonable facsimile of Tex Rickard's ticket reservation and box-office departments.

Intercollegiate football today no more resembles the original game than grog resembles branch-water. It is dishonest from the president's office down and an immoral influence on all concerned and especially on the players, because young men are hired, one way or another, to play as amateurs, knowing they are pros and knowing that the men of prestige, some of them clergymen, are hypocrites and casuistical cheats. They and other undergrads lose respect for the honor and teaching of such, and make up their minds that the whole world is a racket, which, from the view of a practical cynic, is good spiritual preparation at that.

Returning the game to "the boys," a project often talked up 20 years ago but rarely tried with any sincerity, and always disastrously, is like trying to return the world to the womb of time. This big, sly, double-crossing faker got born an innocent babe, but he growed up fast and hasn't drawn an honest breath in fifty years.

Othman — On Anything

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—A blond named Eunice sat at the desk in front of me at school when I was 10. I didn't like her. The ends of her pigtails somehow nearly every day by accident, kind of, found their way into my inkwell. I confess no more.

Stop looking at me like that, coppers. That was 30 years ago. The barbarous barber who sneaks up behind the capital's street-car-riding ladies and slices off their tresses isn't me. Just because I, too, ride the trolleys is no sign I'm your scissor snicking scoundrel.

Talk about crime waves! I'll talk about amputated permanent waves. Nearly a dozen cuties ranging in age from 12 to 30 have had theirs chopped off in the last week. Plain clothes men are riding the cars and busses, looking for suspicious characters with razor blades and gleaming eyes. Any female who's nudged in the crush is likely to scream. I am suspect. Any man is. Including senators.

The long-haired ladies are piling their hair on top of their heads like Dolly Madison. Either that, or they're wrapping their noggins in shawls, like Mexican farm women. Get close to one and she jumps.

Be careful of your newspaper. Let the edge of the sports page graze a lady's coiffure and you're the center of a riot. Take out your pocket knife to pare your fingernails on the Mt. Pleasant trolley and ladies for six seats around are battling toward the exit.

I cannot understand why the special squads of flatfeet detailed to ride the street cars until they catch the man with the portable barber chair have not yet done so. They have an excellent description of him.

A 17-YEAR-OLD school girl, Bernice Dyer, who lost a foot of her page boy bob on the car, reported the villain was a polite fat man who bumped into her and apologized. Mary L. Sanders, a co-ed who was parted from a thick hank of red tresses five inches long, says a gray-haired man with a black overcoat did the parting. (Honest, gents, my overcoat's brown.)

The perambulating scalper, according to Miss Jeane Thompson (who used to have a head of light brown hair), was a handsome young fellow with curly hair of his own. This sounds like me, I will admit, but the night Jeanne with the light-brown hair gave up same on the Mt. Pleasant line, I was at the banker's. I've got witnesses.

Other females, including 12-year-old Diane Sklarsky who lost all of one black braid and part of the other to a man with big feet on a bus, have described the traveling tonsorialist equally as vividly. 'Smatter, coppers?

To keep out of jail myself, I suppose I've got to do like Perry Mason and help you find your criminal connoisseur of curls. Listen carefully, gentlemen. The scalped ladies have pictured your man and he obviously is a Comanche Indian with a razor-sharp tomahawk.

But do not grab any old Indian you spy on a trolley, or you may be up on charges of false arrest. Approach each Comanche politely, test the sharpness of his weapon and say:

"Sir, are you perchance the proprietor of a mattress factory?"

If his answer is "yes," he's your man and I wish you police kindly would get on with your work. I'm busy and my feet are tired from standing on trolleys because the seats are full of cops waiting to see whether I pull out of my pocket a wad of gum or a pair of neck clippers.

FIVE PNEUMONIA DEATHS LISTED FOR NOVEMBER

'Plenty of Rest and Good Food' Urged to Combat Disease.

Taking note of a five-fold "seasonal" jump in deaths due to pneumonia in Mansfield last month, health officials today advised "plenty of rest and good food" to combating the disease.

In December there were five reported cases of pneumonia and five deaths, the health department said. In November there was one case and one death. In Richland county there was one pneumonia death in December; none in November.

Dr. Fred O. Tonney, city-county health commissioner, in addition to recommending rest and food, said that persons with severe colds should "go to bed."

A physician should definitely be called in if any pains develop in the chest during a cold, he added.

Sunshine Lack Cited.

Dr. Tonney said that diseases strike hard now because "these are the months when we lack sunshine with its ultra-violet, disease-preventing rays."

In December, reported chicken pox cases in Mansfield made more than a double jump, going from 17 in November to 36 last month, the health department said. Scarlet fever went from two to six; whooping cough from one to three and regular measles from none to three.

TB Causes One Death.

In both the city and county there was one death due to tuberculosis in December compared to none in November. County cases of diphtheria climbed from none in November to four in December. Mansfield cases dropped from two to none.

Chicken pox cases in the county jumped from 24 to 32 while whooping cough remained at three and scarlet fever dropped from seven to six.

Cases of gonnorhea remained at four in the city and one in the county while syphillis dropped from nine to eight in the city and increased from two to four in the county, according to department reports.

FORCES ENLIST DISABLED MEN

Disabled veterans are eligible for re-enlistment in the army, navy, marine corps and coast guard, M/Sgt. Daniel DeSalvo, Mansfield army recruiting officer, told members of the Disabled American Veterans at a meeting in the DAV hall Sunday afternoon.

"The war department has recognized that many military occupations may be performed by disabled veterans," DeSalvo told DAV members, "and so has drawn up an eligibility document for their re-enlistment."

The directive includes these eligibility clauses: 1, the disabled veteran must meet all armed forces standards except the usual physical requirement; 2, he must care unaided for his personal needs; 3, the disability must be combat incurred; 4, the disabled veteran must be experienced or trainable in one of about 100 occupations.

The directive further states, according to Sgt. DeSalvo, that "during active service, pensions will be suspended but right to the pensions is not lost," and that the disabled veteran "must enlist for three years in the regular army unassigned."

Cmdr. Charles Prosser presided at the meeting yesterday. Following Sgt. DeSalvo's talk and routine business, refreshments were served in the club rooms.

THIRL CUMBRIDGE DIES IN SANATORIUM

Thirl Cumbridge, 41, of 68 East Second street, died last night at the Richland County Tuberculosis sanatorium after an illness of several months.

Mr. Cumbridge was born Dec. 26, 1905, in West Virginia, and came to Mansfield four years ago. He was employed at the Westinghouse Electric corporation until ill health forced his retirement. He was a member of the Eagles lodge and the Baptist lodge at Akron.

Surviving are his wife, Della; one daughter, Mrs. John Cantrill of Mansfield; his father, Gust Cumbridge, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Postalwaite, of West Virginia; three sisters, Mrs. Audry Rose of Akron, and Mrs. Pearl Cantrill and Mrs. Anna Eagles, both of West Virginia, and five brothers, Foster, Walter, Emmons, Earl and James Cumbridge, all of West Virginia.

The body will be removed from the Wappner funeral home tomorrow to Clay, W. Va., for services and burial.

NEW DIRECTORY EXPECTED SOON

Unless held up by a shortage of binding materials, the Mansfield City directory should be ready for distribution shortly, officials of the Burch Directory company said in Akron today.

The directory was to have been completed last summer but continued shortages of materials have held up production. Due to the war, Mansfield has been without a directory since 1943.

Pages are now rolling off the presses in Akron, and when completed will be sent to Cleveland for binding.

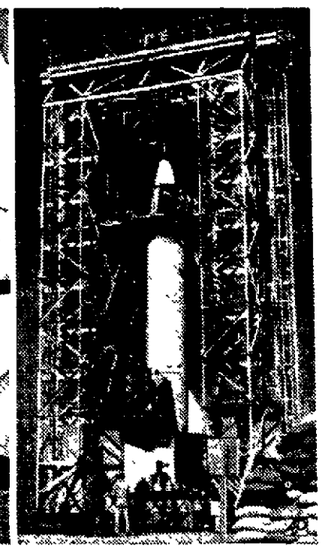
LABOR—This may be the major headache for the new GOP-dominated congress. Lawmakers may try to curb strikes like the one in Philadelphia last year which produced this violence. Heated debate on labor seems certain.

TAXES—Citizens like the harried one above may get some relief, but views differ on extent of the cuts.

RELIEF—Congress must study further aid to areas where millions, like the gaunt girl above, still remain hungry.

HOUSING—This veteran, put on the street with his family, is one acute sample of the housing difficulties that solons will be asked to help solve. Large scale federal aid for housing and erasing of rent controls probably will be sought.

INFLATION — Steps to ease boom or bust and keep trade on an even keel will receive considerable attention.



MILITARY BUDGET — Size of army and navy, appropriations for weapons like rockets (above) will be studied.

SKATE-SEEKER PLEADS GUILTY

A 38-year-old North Main street man, who said he had a yen for ice-skating, was held to the grand jury on $1,500 bond today in municipal court. He pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to break into the Yuncker Brothers sporting store, North Main street.

The man, Joseph Thomas, jr., 254 North Main street, told detectives he wanted to go ice skating but had no skates. He asserted, he attempted to break into the sporting store to steal a pair.

He was spotted by a North Main street man Saturday night as he climbed onto a barrel in order to smash a window at the store. Police nabbed Thomas a short time after he smashed the barred window with a liquor bottle.

Police today also were investigating a reported illegal entry made about 8 p. m. yesterday into the office of the Economy Coal company on Surry road. Nothing was reported stolen.

SET UP FINANCE MEASURE DRAFT

City department heads were to meet with members of the council finance committee this afternoon to round out the first draft of Mansfield's 1947 appropriation bill, Mayor Roy W. Vaughn said.

He said purpose of the meeting is to enable committeemen to get a better understanding of problems to be faced by the various departments this year before completing the bill's first draft.

Tomorrow night the bill, expected to top $800,000, is to go to the finance committee, headed by Councilman Russell Porch. Friday it goes to council as a whole.

Up and Down The Street

PEACE PLAN—

Eleven-year-old Janice Roth, of Public School 25, Yonkers, N. Y., has some definite thoughts about world peace. She passed them along to Mayor Roy W. Vaughn in a letter. "To me," Janice writes, "peace begins in the home where children learn to be grateful and not to be mad and to be kind and honest. In school," Janice continues, "peace is taught something like this: if you are of a different race from the other person you are not supposed to make fun or if you are of a different religion you are not supposed to make fun at him or her either. Peace in the country," her letter concludes, "means there isn't any fighting going on with any other country." Janice's letter was written in conjunction with "Permanent World Peace Day." The mayor, planning to answer the letter, figures Janice "knows what peace is made of."

USES YULE TREES—

Although most people throw away their old Christmas trees or burn them, friends of Frank Walters, 649 Highland avenue, have no trouble disposing of them. Walters takes the trees, trims off the limbs, and works the trunks into highly varnished walking sticks. After he has completed the "sticks", he presents them to the friends who have furnished him with his "materials."

SPOKE TOO SOON—

One small girl on her way to school this morning found that the old saying, "Pride goeth before a fall" could be translated literally. Her sister, skidding on a slippery spot in the sidewalk went down ungracefully. "Well, why don't you watch where you're going?" said the second in a patronizing sort of way and the words were scarcely out of her mouth before she too took a tumble with a very surprised look on her face.

Police Pick Up Rocco's Trail

NEW YORK—(INS)—Police today traced Alphonse Rocco, alleged master-mind behind the "camera-gun" shooting of his former wife last Tuesday, to upstate New York.

Using the name "Alan La Monte," a man now positively identified as Rocco, according to police, duped Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Rizzo of the Bronx, to drive him to Cairo, N. Y., on the pretense of picking up $500 worth of auto repair tools for Mrs. Rizzo's brother, James Capozolli.

INCOME TOPS LAST YEAR'S BY $10,000

More Than $255,000 Netted Since Installation of Devices in '40.

More than $46,000 was received through Mansfield's 400 parking meters last year, topping 1945's receipts by nearly $10,000, Park Meter Inspector Robert Sneeringer reported today.

The year's receipts boosted to more than $255,000 the total received through the meters since they were first installed in November of 1940. This puts the average annual collections above the $12,000 mark.

Average number of meters in service throughout the year was 411, Sneeringers' report shows, from which a daily income of $152 was realized. About 39 cents was received through each meter daily.

According to the report, a total of $46,699 was collected last year, compared to $36,884 in 1945. The six-year total receipts is $255,664, the report shows.

BOARD HEARS PROTESTS ON ROUTE 13 PLAN

Richland county's commissioners adjourned at noon today after two hours of a hearing on the proposal to establish a right-of-way east of Mansfield's municipal airport for eventual construction of a new State Route 13.

Half a dozen property owners over whose land the proposed highway will pass attended the hearing, a number of them protesting the damage that would be caused to their holdings.

The project is generally approved by the commissioners as needed to replace the road abandoned by the state department of highways in 1944 when construction of the airport was begun.

However, final and official approval depends upon today's hearing. Last month overwhelming support for a road to the east of the airport was voiced by property owners and city and county officials.

The proposal is for the state to construct a new and modern highway, approximately three and one-half miles long, if the county makes the surveys and purchases land for the right-of-way. The county engineer's office has already made the surveys but land must be bought by the commissioners.

Ten property owners, including the city of Mansfield and the state of Ohio (Ohio State reformatory), are involved, most of them already having promised free easements for the proposed road.

J. B. Conrad, president of the Richland Shale Brick company, over whose land the road would pass, today repeated his offer of a free easement and told the commissioners that he would dedicate to the state highway department a small plot of land for use as a roadside park if the highway is constructed.

12,430 CHILDREN RETURN TO SCHOOL

Approximately 12,430 youngsters in Mansfield and Richland county opened sleepy eyes this morning and crawled out of bed reluctantly. It was the first day of school after a two-week holiday.

About 6,500 in Mansfield returned to public elementary, junior high schools in the county, nine centralized and 17 one-room schools re-opened.

At St. Peter's school, 900 children gathered for morning mass and later went to their various classes in the grade and high school.

There will be no more vacation until Easter.

ASHLANDER INJURED AS CAR OVERTURNS

Dale L. Stotler, 20, of Ashland, escaped with slight lacerations of his left arm today when his car overturned on State Route 96, west of Ashland.

Highway officers said the mishap occurred at 1 a. m. when Stotler lost control of his auto.

Jesse Scrafield of Dayton didn't get a scratch but demolished his new car late Saturday when he crashed through a fence, and two billboards near Lexington.

Marshal Edward Castor of Lexington said the accident occurred when Scrafield lost control of his car on U. S. Route 42.

SYRIA DEMANDS FORCE FOR U. N.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Syria, one of the new members of the United Nations Security council insisted today that a worldwide system of collective security must precede the immediate arms reduction program demanded by Russia.

Taking note of a Soviet proposal that the council implement the U. N. assembly's arms-slashing resolution within 9 days, Syrian delegate Faris El-Khoury declared that nations first need be assured of security.

"This will have to come about by treaties and agreements between the individual countries and the United Nations," he said in an interview. "We shall need information on how many troops the members have and work out a system for supplying them to the United Nations to assure peace and security."

El Khoury, president of the Syrian parliament and former prime minister, will take his council seat for the first time at a meeting Tuesday, along with delegates from Belgium and Colombia. Mexico, the Netherlands and Egypt retire from the 11-nation body.

At next week's session the council will tackle Russian plan to speed arms cutting, under a counter United States proposal to give priority to atomic control, and take up the long-debated question of U. N. administration of Trieste

Kindly French Soldier Wins Home in U. S.

WOOLSTOCK, Ia. —(AP)— A French soldier's friendship and care for a dying Iowa boy in the West Indies island of Martinique has brought the Frenchman a new home in a new land.

Three years ago this week Louis Hanus, 29, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Celine Hanus, 68, of Woolstock, died of liver disease at Fort De France, Martinique, where Jean Guyader, French colonial soldier, was stationed.

Guyader and Hanus had become friends when the Iowa youth who had joined the French army in 1940, had made his way to Martinique after escaping from a German prison camp.

During Hanus' illness, Guyader wrote regularly to the Iowans. A mother. The Frenchman's kindness so deeply touched the Hanus family that for two years he had sought to get Guyader to America.

Ernest Hanus, brother of Louis, sent Guyader $300 for his passage but many obstacles arose. Guyader was transferred to Morocco; then he was sent to France where his home was at Garantes, Brittany.

New Year's day Guyader appeared unannounced at the Hanus home. He had unexpectedly been permitted to sail on a boat which left France Dec. 18 and reached Woolstock on his own.

"I feel almost as if I had gained a new son," Mrs. Hanus said yesterday.

Guyader, who has benefitted out with new four-buckle overshoes and a fur-lined leather jacket since his arrival, likes this little community which is predominated by people of French descent. He will live at the Hanus home until somewhere he will take up life as a farmer on Ernest's tract near her.

Lawyer Asks Boys Be Seated On Bible When Put In Chair

JACKSON, Miss. —(AP)— An attorney for two condemned teenage Negroes suggested Saturday that they be seated on books in the electric chair, like children at a dinner table, so that their heads might reach the lethal cap.

The attorney, Walter D. Coleman of Natchez, suggested in a formal statement that the books include the Bible and the constitution so that "with one current of electricity the State of Mississippi can destroy all simultaneously."

His statement came after Governor Fielding Wright declined to halt the execution of the two Negro youths, Charles Trudell and James Lewis of Natchez, after a personal interview. Coleman said he would appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Coleman criticized the governor's interview of the two Negroes without the presence of their counsel and said that statements obtained by the chief executive "have been used to persecute them."

The statement added:

"It occurs to my mind that neither of the children is sufficiently large to fit into the various attachments of the electric chair.

"Therefore, I should like to respectfully suggest that we seat them as we do our children at the dinner table, that we place books underneath them in order that their heads shall be at the proper height to receive the death current."

An appeal by Coleman to the Supreme Court would automatically halt the scheduled Jan. 17 execution of the two 15-year-old youths. They were convicted of the murder of Harry McKey, a white lumberman who was killed in a robbery attack.

OPPENHEIMER HEADS ATOMIC SCIENTISTS

WASHINGTON —(AP)— J. R. Oppenheimer of the University of California Saturday was elected California is the newly-elected committee of scientists for the Atomic Energy commission.

Oppenheimer, a 42-year-old physicist, was among the top ranking researchers who developed and then constructed the atomic bombs. He was wartime director of the Los Alamos, N. M., laboratory, where the first detonating test was made.

The atomic energy law requires a minimum of four meetings of the advisory committee a year, but it was said the group would confer much more frequently than that.

In addition to Oppenheimer, the committee includes President James B. Conant of Harvard; Professor Enrico Fermi of the University of Chicago; President Lee A. Du Bridge of the California Institute of Technology; Hartley Rowe, vice president and chief engineer of the United Fruit company; Glenn T. Seaborg, professor of chemistry of the University of California; Cyril Stanley Smith, director of the institute of metals, University of Chicago; and Hood Worthington, chemical engineer of the Dupont Company.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

Two German students got into a fight, over the philosophy of Spinoza of all things, and according to Heidelburg code, had to fight a duel.

Both of them were physical cowards, however, and cannily stipulated that the duel be waged with pistols—and in the dark. Fritz won the toss and shot first. He groped about the blacked-out room, and finally managed to discharge his weapon into the chimney of the fireplace. Much to his surprise he won the duel—catching his adversary squarely in the seat of the pants!

DONNA SCHUSTER FEATURES BOWLING MEET SUNDAY

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER

International News Service

NEW YORK—(INS)—Surprisingly enough, some of the professional football people are of the opinion that Glenn Davis would not stand up for long in their company. Too small.

They tell you, though, that Doc Blanchard would be a terror, especially wtih a ball club like the Chicago Bears which generally has a good enough line to open holes.

As George Franck, of the New York Giants, was saying the other day in revealing that he is through with professional business, a fellow of around 170, which is Davis' weight, might be smart to take a one-season whirl in the National League or the All-America conference—for a big paycheck. He would be doubly smart to get out after that.

Some of the other pro ball-carriers feel much the same way about it, and concur with Franck, Bill Dudley, of the Pittsburgh Steelers, and Frank Reagan, of the Giants, in their decision to turn to some other way of making a living. The price may be made so good that these fellows will be back in uniform next year, but it will have to be about twice as much as they expect.

As for Davis and Blanchard, they alone can tell what they will do. At the moment the heat is on them. Detroit has first claim on Davis and Pittsburgh on Blanchard through the draft, but they may stick to Army.

Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Daylor, superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy, recently took some pot shots at the pro people for trying to lure the academy football stars out of their four-year hitch in the Army upon graduation next summer. This has frightened the pro club-owners and caused the two players to think it over.

If, however, they decide to pitch in with the professionals there is an outside chance that they will windup on the same team and one thing is absolutely certain: they will be paid about as high as any players ever to carry that leather on a cash basis.

Football Directly Responsible For 21 Fatalities

NEW YORK—(INS)—Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, of Purdue university, asserted today that football was directly responsible for 21 fatalities during the past campaign.

He added, however, that only two of these fatalities occurred in college ranks.

Dr. Eastwood gave his report before the American Football Coaches association and the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association, in convention at New York.

The report revealed that there were more direct fatalities during the past season than in any year since 1936. Dr. Eastwood pointed out that increased participation during 1946 might account for the increase in the number of deaths.

Dr. Eastwood, seeking to safeguard football players, suggested the appointment of a qualified committee to study the design of headgears as well as the material used in their construction. He pointed out that over the past 10 years, more than 40 per cent of football fatalities have been the result of head injuries.

Other recommendations made in the report were:

1. Certain high school athletic associations need to vigorously promote football safety measures among their member schools.

2. A careful study of fourth-period fatalities is necessary in view of the increasing number which are occurring during the final quarter.

Undefeated Smokehouse cagers seek their fourth victory in the City A league at the Senior high gymnasium tonight.

Ben Hogan Has 2-Stroke Lead Going Into Meet's Final Round

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Ben Hogan, golf's mighty midget from Hershey, Pa., breezed into the final round of the 72-hole $10,000 Los Angeles open today with a two-stroke lead and firm hope that he would soon have 1947's first major tournament crown.

Blazin' Ben, despite an ailing shoulder, whipped around the Riviera Country club course for a one-over-par 72 yesterday, but his previous scores of 70 and 66 gave him a commanding 208.

Galleryites picked him to finish in front, but Toney Penna, Dayton, O., shotmaster, remained a contender with his 210, followed by Ed (Porky) Oliver, Wilmington, Del., at 213.

There was no mistaking, however, that Hogan, kingpin money winner last year, is still about the hottest thing in golf. He blistered his drives to the greens and faltered only slightly with his putter. He was trapped for a double bogey six on the seventh hole, but Penna had similar trouble at the 17th for a bogey and couldn't quite catch the Hogan man.

Entering the last 18 holes today, amateur Marvin (Bud) Ward, Spokane, Wash., was tied for fourth at 215 with Dai Rees, England's No. 1 golfer. George Fazio, Los Angeles, trailed at 216, with Chick Harbert, Farmington, Mich., and Bruce McCormick, Los Angeles amateur, bracketed next at 217.

Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y., shot a 68 for yesterday's best round, but was back with Western Amateur Champion Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., at 218. Jim Ferrier, Chicago, Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., and Craig Wood, Cincinnati, O., were next with 219's, while Eric Monti, Los Angeles; Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va., and Amateurs Bob Gardner, Los Angeles, and John Barnum, Houston, Tex., had 220 cards.

Eight College Cage Quintets Still Unbeaten

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK — (AP) — When Adolph Rupp of Kentucky, Hank Iba of Oklahoma A. & M. and other big time college basketball coaches predicted early this season that no major quintet would survive the campaign without a defeat, little did they realize what excellent prognosticators they were.

With the cage season just about getting over the preliminary stages as the teams prepare for conference play, only eight outfits have managed to retain unsullied slates.

A dozen hit pitfalls during the past week as Oregon and Santa Clara in the Far West; Iowa, Purdue and Western Michigan in the midwest; Kentucky, Georgia Tech and Duke in the southeast and C. C. N. Y., Holy Cross, Cornell and Syracuse in the east dropped their first games.

Of the major teams that have played four or more games, only Seton Hall, Washington, Duquesne, Marshall, Rhode Island State, Lafayette, West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky survived last week's upheaval.

Among the strong once-beaten fives, NYU, Kentucky, the Aggies, City College, Notre Dame, Oregon, Oregon State, Penn, Michigan, Texas and Syracuse and Arizona still rate as the powers to be reckoned with for national honors.

This is the way some of the conference races shape up:

Western—Anybody's race. Iowa, Ohio State, Wisconsin, Michigan, Purdue, Minnesota and Northwestern all look strong.

Eastern intercollegiate — Penn and Cornell look the best.

Southeastern — Kentucky appears the best, with Georgia Tech, Tennessee and Louisiana State figured to offer the stiffest opposition.

Mid-America—Butler the best with Cincinnati rated right behind.

Midwest—Beloit.

Marion Man Bids For Mansfield Ball Franchise

Al Hamberg, Marion jewelry store owner, yesterday applied for a Mansfield franchise in the Class D Ohio State league at a league meeting in Columbus, according to Frank M. Colley, league president.

Bids for the vacated Middletown franchise were made at the meeting by groups representing Mansfield, Portsmouth, Charleston, W. Va., and Muncie, Ind. The Charlestown bid was entered by the Cincinnati Reds while the St. Louis Browns are interested in the Muncie application.

Hamberg was reportedly on his way to Mansfield this morning to contact any parties that may be interested in the franchise. He had not contacted city officials up until press time today.

Hamberg posted $1,125 forfeit money at the meeting yesterday and according to Colley was ready to post $3,000 next Sunday at a meeting in Dayton. The $3,000 bond would serve as a guarantee of operation.

Mansfield's last professional team, the Braves, competed in the Ohio State league in 1941.

League directors decided that the franchise would be awarded at the Dayton meeting. Present franchise holders are Zanesville, Springfield, Newark, Marion, Lima, Dayton and Richmond, Ind.

Richland Beverage Plays Two Games

Richland Beverage entertains the Ontario and Lucas veterans in a doubleheader at the Lexington high gymnasium tonight at 7:30.

The Beveragemen are in first place in the first division of the City A league with four victories. They have won five contests and suffered one defeat at the hands of Smokehouse in a non-league game.

The Beverage squad collides with the Ontario vets in the first tilt and Lucas in the second.

Tygers Have Balanced Scoring Combination

One of Mansfield Senior high school's most evenly balanced scoring combinations will take to the court tomorrow night in an effort to stop a two-game Ashland winning streak.

The Tygers and A's clash in the Senior high gym for their first of two meetings during the 1946-47 season. Mansfield and Ashland have met in hardwood battle 68 times with the Bengals coming out on the long end 36 times.

Last season Ashland dropped the Tygers twice but only one letterman—Dick Messner—is still on the squad. Mansfield has three monogram winners, although Ollie Cline is the only one who was a starter.

Ashland has a better record than the Tygers but seasonal marks mean almost nothing in the traditional series. The A's have won five victories in six games while Mansfield has copped five of eight contests.

Coach C. E. Taylor's Ashland squad will take a four-game winning streak into the fray. The A's came from behind to trip Shelby, 35 to 31, last Friday night while Mansfield was falling, in overtime, to a tough Lima Central club, 45 to 43.

Cline continues to lead the Bengal scoring with 83 points while Tommy Bloor is second with 80. Cline has 32 field goals and 19 free throws while Bloor has hit 34 times from the court and 12 from the free throw line.

Both Chuck Sisco and Nick Gagich have averaged eight points a game. Sisco has counted 65 points and Gagich 56, but the latter missed one game. Cline's average is 10.4 and Bloor's 10.

Ralph Majors has averaged only four points a game. However, he found his shooting eye against Central, dropping in five field goals, two in the overtime period.

Madison Rams Favored Over Lucas Quintet

Mansfield Madison is favored to ring up its fifth consecutive basketball victory tomorrow night.

The Rams entertain Lucas, which has won two contests and dropped four in the Richland county league race. The Lucas quintet is in sixth place in the loop standings.

Coach Jeff DeHaven's squad suffered its only defeat in the seasonal opener, losing to a veteran, Mt. Vernon team.

DeHaven is working his cagers this afternoon on a defense to stop Don Stake, Lucas guard, who is leading the county scorers with 36 field goals and 13 foul shots for 85 points. Stake's average is 14.2.

Eldon Pritchard and Herb Eldridge lead Madison offensive. Pritchard has scored 31 fielders and three gift shots for 65 points, an average of 13. Eldridge tallied 17 two-pointers and nine charity tosses for 43 markers.

Whippets Can Gain Loop Lead

SHELBY—The Shelby Whippets will have a chance to gain the undisputed lead again in the Northern Ohio league when Willard comes here Friday night for an official league tilt.

Coach Charles Williams' quintet is tied with Bellevue for the league lead through the point system used to compute the standings although the Whippets are undefeated in two games and the Redmen have only won two out of three games. Two points are given for a win and one for a tie to determine the standings.

Two other league tilts are scheduled Friday night. Upper Sandusky will be seeking its second win out of three games at Crestline while Galion opens the league season by entertaining Bucyrus.

Bellevue goes outside of the circuit Friday night to play at Port Clinton, while Norwalk is entertaining Fremont Rocs in a non-league contest.

Two games are scheduled for Tuesday night. Shelby plays at Galion and Crestline at Mt. Gilead in non-league contests.

On Saturday night, Green township plays at Willard.

Once beaten Bellevue knocked Norwalk out of the state's undefeated ranks, 39 to 30, in the only league game played last week. It was the first defeat in six games for the Huron county team.

Record Spurt Beats Barons

A record eight-goal outburst in one period was all that stood between the Cleveland Barons and the number one spot in the American Hockey league today.

Buffalo's Bisons, defending champs in the minor circuit, took their second in a row from the sizzling Barons last night at Buffalo, 9-3, but not without protest, both verbally and physically.

Trailing 3-1 going into the final 20 minutes, the amazing Bisons set a new American circuit mark by counting eight times before the end of the period. The previous record was seven, held jointly by six clubs, including the Barons.

The Barons entered a protest after the game, however, claiming that a board was protruding from the dasher behind the Cleveland cage.

Offer Coaches 5 Rule Changes

NEW YORK—(UP)—Five proposals for rules changes were to be offered to the American Football Coaches' association today, with approval a certainty.

The suggestions then will go to the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association at a session scheduled for Kerrville, Tex., on Jan. 30.

The proposals, as adopted yesterday by the 19-man AFCA rules committee headed by Lou Little of Columbus, would:

1—Declare the ball dead when a kick for extra point is blocked, and prohibit the kicking team from advancing the ball.

2—Move the ball 20 yards in from the sidelines instead of 15 yards.

3—Soften players' apparel, such as shoulder pads, thigh guards, etc.

4—Re-word the rule concerning offensive shifts to make clear that shifts designed to draw an opponent offside are unethical and illegal. (Navy used such a shift on Army and Georgie Tech used one on Georgia.)

5—Change the substitution rule so that a substitution may be made without penalty or time-out while the clock is running, with these sub-points understood: (a) there shall be no more than two men replaced at a time; (b) the rules shall allow only three times-out per half instead of four; (c) the ball shall be put in play within 25 seconds, with this rule strictly enforced and the referee's role in the rule clarified.

If there is any one thing a bidder wants to avoid most of all, it is getting himself doubled when sitting between two crushingly strong hands of the opposition. That is why an opener of the auction should be extremely gingerly about bidding on the second round after both opponents have taken positive action and his own partner has passed, thereby indicating the possibility of a worthless hand. If the opener can bid a different suit from his first, he can be a bit more venturesome, as he thus offers his partner an option.

Employing conventions widely in use, the South player at Tables 1 and 2 passed East's informative double for a takeout. At the first table, North did not realize his danger between two possibly strong hands, so rebid his clubs on the second round. He got himself doubled and set four tricks for a bottom score in the duplicate, with East and West scoring a top in their direction at 700 points.

At Table 2, North ducked the risk of rebid, explaining later that, with the very modest hand he held, he would not rebid unless he had a two suiter, so that naming the other would give his partner a choice between suits. There the opponents got into a No Trump game without difficulty and made it with a couple of extra tricks for a score of 460, including the 300-point game premium.

At Table 3, North and South treated an immediate bid over an intervening double as showing enough playing tricks for safety, but definite lack of high card strength—to impede strong opponents. After West doubled, it was set just one trick. Even getting set a couple would have left North and South in a top score position.

MRS. GROUSE EXPLAINS

What Mother Nature means is that she tries not to be unfair to any one, giving to each according to his need. So, because her children in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows differ so in their ways of living their needs differ so greatly, and to each she gives some advantage to meet his special need. Peter Rabbit sometimes envies Flitter the Bat his wings, but what would Peter do with wings? His need is for stout jumping legs, not wings, while a Bat would have no use at all for jumping legs.

Peter had thought it unfair that his big cousin, Jumper the Hare, should have been given snowshoes by Old Mother Nature while he, Peter, had none. Then Blackey the Crow had pointed out that he had no real need of them while Jumper had. Grudgingly Peter admitted that what Blacky had said was true. Then, because he never thinks about anything for long at a time he forgot all about snowshoes until over in the Green Forest he met Mrs. Crouse. Mrs. Crouse was wearing snowshoes.

Peter watched her walking easily over soft snow, not sinking in at all, but leaving light footprints that were not at all like footprints of hers that he had seen in damp earth in warm weather. Seeing them for the first time and not seeing who made them you would hardly guess that these prints were made by the same feet. The prints in the summer showed clearly the imprint of each slender toe. The prints in the snow were not of slender toes making clear, sharp imprints but seemingly of broad toes that didn't leave sharp outlines. This was because Mrs. Grouse was wearing the snowshoes given her at the beginning of winter to wear until spring. Along the two sides of each toe Old Mother Nature had grown for her spreading horny points like the teeth of a comb. They kept her from sinking into the snow. They formed her snowshoes. They did for her just what the long, spreading, hairy toes of Jumper the Hare did for him and real snowshoes do for you; they kept her on top of deep snow.

"Why should Old Mother Nature have given you snowshoes and not other birds?" asked Peter.

"Other birds don't need them; I do," replied Mrs. Grouse

"I don't see why you need them any more than others do," declared Peter.

"I'm a ground bird," said Mrs. Grouse quite as if that made everything perfectly clear.

It didn't. Not to Peter anyway. "What difference does that make?" he demanded. "Other birds go on the ground and you go up in trees, so what is the difference?"

"Most other birds here in winter live in trees. They are so small that if they do come down on the snow they don't sink in. As I said before I am a ground bird, not a tree bird. I get most of my food on the ground or within reach from it. So I need snowshoes to get about for I am too big and heavy to walk about without sinking in unless I have them," explained Mrs. Grouse.

"You perch in trees. I've seen you," said Peter.

"True," replied Mrs. Grouse. "I go up in trees for buds, and sometimes spend a night in a tree, but I'm not at home in trees. My feet were made for walking, not for perching in trees."

"Blacky the Crow is big, but he hasn't snowshoes," said Peter.

"Blacky is on the ground a lot, but he isn't a ground bird. He sees his food from the air and goes down directly to it. I can't fly the way he does, so have to walk about to look for my food. He can fly slowly, and turn and circle if he wants to, all the time watching below. I have to fly straight away and too fast to watch for anything but where I am going, and I can't fly far. Do you think I would have been given snowshoes if I didn't really need them?" said Mrs. Grouse.

"No," said Peter, "I don't suppose you would. It must be nice to have snowshoes," he added a bit wistfully.

"Don't be foolish," retorted Mrs. Grouse.

Westinghouse Introduces Nine New Products at Chicago Furniture Mart

SIX ARTICLES WILL BE MADE IN MANSFIELD

Nine new products of the Westinghouse Electric corporation's appliance division, in addition to a new line of redesigned kitchen cabinets, an improved line of electric ranges and the recently-introduced electric comforter, were shown today at the American Furniture Mart in Chicago.

On display were:

A two-temperature refrigerator, automatic toaster, high-powered electric food mixer, a streamlined, light-weight aluminum iron; the Waste-Away, a garbage disposer; new upright and tank-type vacuum cleaners; a new 40-gallon water heater, a turn-over toaster and a streamlined, low-cost fan.

The Mansfield plant will produce the refrigerator, both types of toasters, the iron, water heater, electric range and the controls for the comforter.

* * *

THE AVAILABILITY OF these new products will, for the most part, be limited throughout 1947, according to J. H. Ashbaugh, vice president of the appliance division.

"While we are showing these new products now and will be in production on them sometime in 1947, it is apparent the shortages of materials will delay our marketing most of them nationally for several months," Ashbaugh said.

"Some of these new products will be tested in two or three areas in 1947. We do not anticipate any increase in the next six months production volume over the volume achieved in the final quarter of 1946 on the appliances we made last year. We may see a general volume increase of around 20 per cent in the last half of 1947."

In addition to the new products on display in the Westinghouse show room in the American Furniture Mart, are three models of the standard seven and nine cubic foot refrigerators; three electric range models; a six cubic foot upright Home Freezer; a Laundromat automatic washer and an automatic clothes dryer; warming pad; hot plate; sandwich grill; waffle baker; Cozy Glow electric heater; electric roaster; standard streamline iron and 40 and 52 gallon round type electric water heaters.

* * *

THE NEW-SEVEN CUBIC foot two-temperature refrigerator, which will be distributed sometime in the second quarter of 1947, will hold 56 pounds of frozen food. It incorporates two controls for regulating temperature. The "temperature selector" controls the temperature of the freeze chest, and the second control regulates the temperature of the general food storage area and adjusts automatically in relation to the outside temperature, room temperature and load conditions.

A new 1,000 watt, automatic pop-up toaster, designed in a modern motif, features a quiet clock-type timer and thermal compensator that insure even browning of every slice of toast from the first to last. The new toaster is expected to reach the market sometime this year.

A new, streamlined lightweight electric food mixer designed for power, ease of cleaning and efficiency of beating action will be introduced to the public this year.

* * *

A NEW, LIGHT WEIGHT hand iron with aluminum base and cover, will be introduced in the second quarter of 1947. The new iron weighs three pounds and has a black plastic, hand-rest handle. The new iron doesn't replace the standard cast-iron base, four pound Streamline iron, the production of which will be continued.

The Waste-Away garbage disposer with its high chrome tool steel shredding sleeve, impellers and flywheel disposes of all food wastes for the average family in a few minutes. The model will be introduced in a few markets in 1947.

The new upright vacuum cleaner is completely automatic and has a simplified brush adjustment to compensate for wear and has greater suction for more efficient cleaning.

The new tank cleaner features the Adjust-O-Matic nozzle which contains a recessed brush connected to two metal pads on each side of it. The brush in normal operation is not in contact with the rug or carpet. However, a slight pressure on the handle pushes the brush out into contact with the rug or carpet for the picking up of hair, thread or dirt patches.

The new 40-gallon table top electric water heater is the first of its size made and is designed to meet a popular demand for increased capicity in table top water heaters. It is 24 inches wide and can be installed in place of a 24-inch base cabinet in the kitchen. It provides the user with four square feet of acid resisting, porcelain enameled work surface.

* * *

THE TURN-OVER TOASTER will toast two slices of bread and when the bread trays are lowered the bread is automatically turned.

A completely redesigned line of sink, base and wall cabinets for kitchens will be introduced in a few markets early this year by Westinghouse.

The wall cabinets can be hung on walls without cutting away plaster or providing for flush grounds, eliminating special hanging and making it possible for one man to install them.

The new line of electric ranges will feature a streamlined work surface with the removal of the center range top vent for the oven. The oven is now vented through a surface element.

The new low cost fan, the Lively-Aire, is a 10-inch oscillating unit that can be mounted on a wall or used on a desk or table. It is modernly styled and designed for maximum airflow and is finished in Polo green. It will be on the dealers' shelves by early spring.

The new electric comforter, introduced late last year by Westinghouse, made its first market appearance today. It was presented in three colors, rose, blue and green. It is double bed size and its warmth is automatically regulated by a thermostat which keeps the comforter at a constant temperature, regardless of the changing coldness of a room. The thermostat control is in the shape of an ornamental powder box, finished in satin chrome, and a felt facing on the bottom prevents scratching of furniture.

NEW PRODUCTS ON DISPLAY—Latest model Westinghouse Electric home appliances went on display today at the Furniture Mart in Chicago in a preview of what buyers can expect on the market sometime this year. Left above is the seven-cubic-foot, two-temperature refrigerator which will hold 56 pounds of frozen food and a half-bushel of vegetables in the Humidrawers. The new, light-weight hand iron with aluminum base and cover, right above, is patterned after the Westinghouse streamlined Adjust-O-Matic iron. The new model has an aluminum base with a cast-in Corox heating element and weighs only three pounds. Designed to add glamor to the breakfast table is the 1,000 watt automatic pop-up toaster, lower left. An ensemble of the redesigned line of sink, base and wall cabinets for kitchens is shown lower right with Miss Dorothy Tahsler as demonstrator. The flush door and drawer construction provides a smooth, easy-to-clean surface and the modern appearance matches the latest designs in kitchen appliances. Besides flush construction, the new line features ball bearing drawer suspension, demonstrated by Miss Tahsler, removable and adjustable shelves, sound-proofed doors, self-adjusting door catch, all steel construction and easy "hang-type" installation. Three In County Join Cattle Club

Earl B. Metcalf of Lucas and Ray Kochenderfer and Robert Owens, both of Shiloh, were among the 68 Ohio Holstein breeders who today had been admitted to membership in the Holstein-Friesian association of America by unanimous vote of the board of directors.

The board, meeting at Brattleboro, Vt., approved 800 applications for membership into the association. The organization, said to be the largest dairy cattle recording group in the world, has a total membership of 36,700.

BONUS BILL PLANNED

CANTON—(AP)—A $320,000,000 state bonus plan for second World War veterans, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be introduced at an early session of the Ohio legislature, Herman E. Weber, Ohio commander of the VFW, said.

EXPANDED BEEF OUTPUT LIKELY TO CUT PRICES

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Beef production in coming months may set a record, the agriculture department said today. And housewives may expect prices to come down.

Pork, however, will be fairly scarce until October and prices will stay high.

Veal will be more plentiful and cheaper. Lamb will be scarcer and higher.

Cattle slaughter between now and July 1 "may set a new high," the department said in a review of the livestock and meat situation.

Prices would remain high only if consumers continue to clamor for beef when they could put some of their spending money into long-scarce consumer goods. Agriculture experts think this is unlikely and that a price drop is likely.

Beef production for the entire year probably will equal records for the past 35 years.

By fall the pork supply should pick up, according to the agriculture department, since the corn price will encourage larger production than last fall.

Cost of Jumping Bond Increased

PORTSMOUTH —(AP)— Municipal Judge Kenneth Cranston announced Saturday a decided increase in the court bonds because, he said, too many "treat charges lightly" and simply forfeit bonds through failure to appear in court.

Among the increases are: reckless operation of auto from $31.20 to $50; driving while drunk, leaving scene of accident, from $156.20 to $200; speeding, from $31.20 to $50.

SEVEN ASHLAND VET FAMILIES GET HOUSING

ASHLAND—Unless legal technicalities or weather bar the way, seven Ashland county veterans and their families will have living quarters before spring through the county's $25,000 share of the state's veteran housing appropriation.

After consideration, county commissioners have awarded contracts and made outright property purchases which will provide two two-family units in Ashland and quarters for three veterans families in Loudonville.

Two prefabricated units will be erected on Miller street in Ashland by Donald R. Heter of Ashland on basements to be provided by Harlan E. Budd on property he owns on Miller streeet. Budd has agreed to erect the basements, utilities, sanitary facilities, walks and landscaping in return for a lease by the county which will pay him $38 monthly.

Heter has been awarded a contract to erect the two prefabricated double houses at a total cost of $13,768.90. Budd expects to start work on the basements as soon as weather permits. The work can be completed in ten days, he told commissioners, while Heter said the homes can be completed within six weeks after basements are completed.

At Loudonville, commissioners purchased a house to be converted into a duplex. The house, costing $5,500, requires but a minimum of remodeling to make it suitable for two families. In addition, commissioners have, contracted for erection of a quonset hut at a cost of $3,490 on the lot occupied by the house they purchased.

Contract for the quonset building was awarded to Charles W. Swartz of Ashland. The contract calls for a foundation of cement blocks 20 by 24 feet. A wood floor will be covered with linoleum and will include eight windows, closets, shelves and storage cabinets, kitchen stove, sink, ice box, shower cabinet, toilet, lavatory, kitchen cupboard, floor type gas heater, and Swartz will also furnish electric wiring and interior decorations.

Completion of arrangements for spending the county's housing appropriation from the state was made by commissioners with the cooperation of the veterans housing advisory committee, headed by Howard S. Lutz, Ashland attorney and navy veteran.

NEW JOB DUE FOR DIRKSEN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Republican house members said today that Rep. Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.), probably would be named chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee.

He would succeed Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R., Ind.). Halleck has been named Republican floor leader of the house. He will give up the congressional campaign committee chairmanship to devote all of his time to that post.

The job of the Republican house congressional campaign committee is to elect Republicans to congress, largely raising and dispensing funds, and providing speakers and other assistance.

Dirksen was a candidate for the floor leadership, but dropped out of the race at the last minute along with two other candidates to make it a clean sweep for Halleck.

Dirksen is considered one of the ablest debaters in the house and a topnotch campaign orator. GOP house members said these qualifications made him a logical choice to take over the campaign chairmanship.

"The 1948 campaign when we want to elect a Republican president is what we're shooting for now," one Republican said, "and we want a man of Dirksen's caliber to help direct it.

"Electing a good, solid majority of Republicans to congress will help us elect a Republican president," he said.

World Government Urged By Holliday

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A federal government of the world, strong enough to enforce peace, was urged Saturday by W. T. Holliday, president of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio.

He told a meeting of the World Federalists of Ohio that nations really wanting world order should call a "constitutional convention" to amend the United Nations charter to create such a government with legislative, executive, and judicial branches.

CHANDLER, Ariz.—(AP)—Ely Culbertson, bridge expert and writer on international affairs, said today that the rumors he has been married "to a charming young lady are very flattering" but that he is not married. "I hope to be married," he added, "God and the lady willing." But he did not disclose the woman's name.

U. S. FILES BUTTER MANIPULATION SUIT

NEW YORK—(AP)—The government charged Saturday in a criminal information that the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., its president, Henry H. Rathbun, and three members of the executive committee manipulated the price of butter on the New York Mercantile Exchange for five days last month.

The charges stemmed from the drop of ten cents a pound in the wholesale butter price on Dec. 26 after organized support by dairy interests was withdrawn.

Model Picks 6 'Undress' 1946 Champs

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Contending that it's more important for a woman to look beautiful in undress than dressed, New York lingerie model Joan Smith today named her choices for the six best undressed women of the year to compete with the fashion experts' choice of the ten best dressed.

Miss Smith, who has posed in more than 5,000 brassiere, pantie and swimming suit ads in the past year, listed the following choices:

Chili Williams and Marie MacDonald—most beautiful in bathing suits.

Lana Turner—prettiest in a slip.

Rita Hayworth—most languorous in a negligee.

Jane Russell—most gorgeous in a brassiere.

Carole Landis—loveliest in a nightgown.

"With all this competition today a girl has to look her best in undress," Miss Smith added.

SYSTEM 'FLOWS' UNHEATED STEEL

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—A German-developed process to make cold steel "flow" under tremendous pressure can save American industry "unbelievable amounts," a commerce department official said today.

W. W. Galbreath, investigator for the department's office of technical services, described the invention as "an advanced development of the art of metal stamping."

Under pressure of 230,000 pounds per square inch, the steel is forced to flow in the die. The secret is that it is lubricated in such a way that friction is cut.

CALENDAR GIRL, 1949 EDITION—This was the day to symbolize the infant New Year but 1947 is old stuff to Brown & Bigelow, St. Paul, Minn., calendar makers. For example, Artist K. O. Munson already is at work on "Miss 1949," using Marge Holdy of Minneapolis, Minn., as his model.—(AP Wirephoto)

"If American manufacturers are able to use the bonderizing (lubrication) process to the same extent that it is being used by the Germans . . . the savings will run into unbelievable amounts," Galbreath said. "This is particularly true when the amount of wire, cold drawn pipe, and stampings manufactured yearly in this country are considered."

The Germans used the method to make steel cartridge cases, aircraft parts, fuse bases and other steel articles during the war.

BYRNES WANTS TO 'STAY PUT'

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—If Secretary of State James F. Byrnes has his way, the state department will stay in its musty old building across the street from the White House.

And since he has President Truman's support, it is pretty likely that Byrnes will have his way.

There has been much talk—even plans by some state department and budget bureau parleys—about moving the department to a new building several blocks away. The new building originally was built to house the war department before the war came along and the Pentagon building was erected in Virginia.

Byrnes thinks there is too much sentiment attached to the old state department building, and furthermore the department should always be near the White House.

The department now shares its rambling old building with the bureau of the budget. The budget bureau may be moved out.

TRUMAN URGES NEW LAWS TO HALT STRIKES

President Calls For Harmony In Message to Congress.

Asserting that 1947 promised great opportunities for all, he said it was up to industry "not only to hold the line on existing prices, but to make reductions whenever profits justify." It is up to labor, he said, "to refrain from pressing for unjustified wage increases that will force increases in the price level."

He told congress he would soon recommend repeal of further administration powers he still retained under the states of emergency and ask congress to consider repealing individual laws under the "state of war" provisions. He already has ended the period of hostilities, signaling an end to more than 40 wartume powers.

On the controversial subject of housing, the president said that comprehensive legislation "is urgently required," and referred to the so-called Wagner-Ellender-Taft bill. He said the government "will continue to expedite the flow of key building materials, to limit non-residential construction and to give financial support where it will do the most good."

He urged legislation to rebuild "blighted areas" in cities and to establish "positive incentives for the investment of billions of dollars of private capital in large-scale rental housing projects." He also advocated the construction of 500,000 units of public low-rental housing and establishment of a single peacetime federal housing agency.

On another front, he expressed fear that one of the "gravest threats" to national welfare lay in what he termined the increasing concentration of power "in the hands of a small number of giant organizations." He promised to "vigorously enforce the anti-trust laws" and asked congressional cooperation to restrict monopoly by providing government assistance to new firms and new industries.

On agriculture, the president asked congress "to set the stage for permanent farm welfare" before war-time measures end.

"Present laws give considerable stability to farm prices for 1947 and 1948," he said, "and these two years must be utilized to maintain and develop markets for our great productive power."

He suggested ways be found to use new farm skills and practices, to expand markets at home and abroad, and provide a balanced pattern of peacetime production.

Briefly, here are some of the other points:

Veterans: Except for minor adjustments, the president expressed belief "that our program for benefits of veterans is now complete."

In the long run, he said, the success of the program will not be measured by the number of veterans obtaining financial aid or by the number of dollars the government spends but by the "further contribution we enable our veterans to make to their country." He asked that this be the criterion in consideration of additional legislation.

Civil Rights: He expressed concern at what he described as attacks upon "constitutional rights" of citizesn as a result of "racial and religious bigotry."

Segments of our people, he said, have been prevented from voting and denied freedom to engage in some occupations.

International Relief: The chief executive said he did not feel "that the United States has done its part" in admitting displaced persons into this country and asked new legislation.

International Trade: He asserted this country had made a good start on economic cooperation through the international bank, the monetary fund and the export-import bank. Now, he said, "we must take other steps for the reconstruction of world trade and we should continue to strive for an international trade system as free from obstructions as possible."

Military Policy: The United States will be willing, he said, "to lead in collective disarmament," when a system of collective security under the United Nations has been established.

He said the war department had been unable to determine whether it could maintain army strength by relying exclusively on volunteers. After a survey, he added, the department will make its recommendation as to whether it is necessary to extend the selective service law, now due to expire on March 31.

Saying the nation's goal is "collective security for all mankind." Mr. Truman closed his message on this solemn note:

"If we can work in a spirit of understanding and mutual respect, we can fulfil this solemn obligation which rests upon us.

"May the Lord strengthen us in our faith.

"May he give us wisdom to lead the people of the world in the ways of peace."

One observer comments: "Most people seem to enjoy a cold so much they want to let their friends in on it, too."

A style note says "a man needs eleven hats in order to be well dressed"—but how are folks to know he has the other ten?

Word comes that work has already started on 1949 calendars—showing commendable optimism, in view of present unsettled conditions.

Proposal To Expand Fairgrounds Use

CHANGING requirements of successive generations demand sufficient latitude of action to permit adaptation of public facilities to needs of the times. This applies to consideration of plans designed to broaden the scope of use of the Richland county fair grounds, which occupy valuable and little-used property fronting on Springmill street.

A proposal being considered is that the present fairgrounds be continued as such, for the annual county fair, but that they also be fitted to the requirements of a community park and recreational center.

While legal aspects of the project are to be explored, it would appear that this is a matter to be determined by advisability, and that no insurmountable legal barriers are likely to appear in the event of decision to make such a change.

It is proposed that the county fair board and Mansfield's Public Parks commission have joint jurisdiction in operating the fairgrounds property, in the event of favorable action, and while many details would remain to be worked out, it appears that a forward-looking view is now being taken.

Baruch Completes Another Job

WHILE 76-year-old Bernard Baruch has resigned as United States member of the United Nations Atomic commission, it cannot be doubted that his wise counsel will continue to be available to his country whenever he is called upon for advice or service—as it has been at all times during his notable career.

Mr. Baruch's record of willing public service is a long and honorable one, extending through both of the world wars in either active or advisory capacities.

In resigning from the atomic commission Mr. Baruch regards his work as completed, after adoption of main essentials of the American plan for atomic energy control.

His suggestion: "I see no reason why this country should not continue the making of bombs, at least until ratification of the treaty (providing for international atomic controls)", accords with the sound thinking with which Mr. Baruch is justifiably credited.

Ouster of Bilbo Appears Assured

ABRUPT wind-up of the attempted filibuster in the Bilbo case Saturday afternoon permitted resumption of orderly procedure in organization of the senate and readiness for today's "State of the Union" message by President Truman.

A good-as-any guess, at the moment, would be that, even if Bilbo's physical condition permits, he will never again sit among United States senators, and that his public career, if any, will be confined to the state where a majority of voters appear to be in accord with his vicious incitation of racial hatred.

As always, in instances of such a serious physical ailment as that from which Bilbo is suffering, there is a sympathetic feeling—but it may be hoped, in the event of his recovery, that his power for evil can be no longer extended beyond his own community, and that, even there, the better element attain a dominance which will accomplish the eclipse of Bilbo and his kind.

Three Men Who Can 'Rock the Boat'

IT HAS been said that the nation's industrial chance for 1947 rests with three men: Philip Murray, CIO president and head of the Steel Workers' Union; John L. Lewis, AFL president of the United Mine Workers, and Benjamin F. Fairless, who gets a $152,000 salary for running the United States Steel corporation.

The steel workers' contract is up for renewal Feb. 15. Murray's union has come out for wage increases based on the contention that such a hike could be granted without boosting prices to consumers. Lewis' recent difficulties with the government were settled on a truce basis that runs only until March 31. These dates could mark the beginning of strikes in these two basic industries. But if Fairless and Murray can get together, and arrive at a satisfactory settlement of the steel workers' demands, it is believed that this would influence the miners toward peace.

It appears that the nation is pinning its hopes for a no-strike 1947 on these three powerful citizens, even more than on congress. Each man has risen high in his sphere, has achieved much power and prominence. With such leadership goes great responsibility, not only for the group represented but for the people as a whole.

To Seek Antarctica Warm Spots

ARE THERE any ice-free stretches in Antarctica, warmed by hot springs? The Byrd expedition hopes that its planes may find some, basing its expectation on the recent British find of a hot geyser in their section of Antarctica, and on the long-known and still active volcano, Mr. Erebus, on the way to Little America.

If there were any ice-free areas, warmed by hot springs, the South Polar continent could be settled and its mineral resources utilized. The adventurous may yet find it a new area to develop.

Whatever the outcome of the 1948 Republican national convention, Harry Wade feels that he will have no further need for his Hoover button.

Some people who lose their tempers like to think they are showing "righteous indignation."

THERE'S NO SENSE IN RUSHING THE SEASON

Pearson Says Labor Should Act Now to Reform Itself, Not Wait

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Those who sometimes sit in on White House councils say that with most of the Truman brain trusters it's now a race to beat the Republicans to the punch. If the brain trusters think the Republicans are going to make a certain move, they urge the president to rush in and do it first.

The two men most in a dither to get under the wire ahead of the Republicans are: Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and legal adviser Clark Clifford. It was Snyder and Clifford who were chiefly responsible for ending part of the war powers—just as the Republicans had about decided the war powers would have to be continued.

Several weeks ago, Snyder and Clifford were arguing with Wilson Wyatt, retired housing administrator, about the termination of all price controls.

"We've got to remove them," argued Secretary Snyder. "Because if we don't, the Republicans will do it for us."

"All right," countered Wyatt, "but why beat the Republicans to a mistake? If they want to make mistakes, let them take the blame for those mistakes."

Program for Labor.

Organized labor today is somewhat in the same position as the man in the well-known halitosis advertisement, "even your best friend won't tell you."

Labor's enemies, of course, don't hesitate to tell labor what's wrong with it, but many of labor's real friends, including even certain labor leaders themselves, haven't had the nerve to speak out publicly regarding labor's defects.

Result is that unless labor does its own housecleaning, unless it takes the lead for constructive legislation, it faces one of the worst legislative setbacks in history.

For about two decades this writer has vigorously championed the basic rights of labor. And while it may not be popular to give advice, here are some ideas for constructive labor reforms which can head off drastic legislation:

1. Jurisdictional strikes should be outlawed. There is no reason for making the public suffer because civil war rages between two labor unions. Labor should appoint another Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who restored confidence to baseball—someone of national stature such as Charles Evans Hughes or Secretary of State Byrnes—to iron out its internecine warfare. And do it before congress does it first.

2. Union racketeers who milk both workers and small employers should be cleaned out by the unions themselves or the government will do it for them.

Inspection of Books.

3. Inspection of books is already practiced by 40 out of 41 CIO unions. Their funds are audited by certified public accountants, and all salaries and expenses are open to public inspection. All unions should be required to follow suit. If so, John L. Lewis would not be able to pay $300,000 of miners' money to a mine operator in Springfield, Ill., to stay shut. Also some of the fancy salaries paid to members of the Lewis family and others might be discouraged.

4. Labor unions must be responsible for the contracts they sign. Employers have the right to figure their costs in advance, and when a contract is signed, he knows what his costs are. This is a point Phil Murray has hammered home many times. If labor violates a contract it must suffer a financial penalty.

5. Utility disputes should be settled by compulsory arbitration. When it comes to electric power, street railways, telephones, and the railroads, the public should not be made to suffer because labor and capital cannot agree. In the end, the disastrous Pittsburgh power strike was settled by arbitration — though only after heavy financial loss to the workers involved and after giving a black eye to labor generally.

6. Tri-partite mediation by representatives of labor, management and the public should be arranged for by the government in all disputes where the public has an important indirect interest—such as coal and steel. The final acceptance of a mediation board decision is not compulsory, but it is usually fair and more likely to settle the dispute.

If labor's enlightened leaders take the initiative in putting across these basic reforms, its worst enemies both in congress and elsewhere will find the ground cut out from under them. Furthermore it will inaugurate a new era of goodwill between labor and employer which should work wonders for the nation.

North Carolina Doings.

On Sept. 10, 1945, this column told how the Coxe Lumber company of Waldboro, N. C., had criminal charges brought against it by the OPA for up-grading lumber; also how senatorial nominee Clyde Hoey of North Carolina interviened on behalf of the Coxe Lumber company and helped to get the criminal charges dropped.

Senator Hoey acted as attorney for the lumber company shortly after he had been nominated for the senate, tantamount to election in North Carolina. Had he acted after becoming senator, he himself would have been subject to criminal prosecution.

Whether due to Hoey's influence or other factors, the justice department finally dropped the criminal charges against the Coxe lumber company—much to the disgust of the OPA.

Senator Hoey, a former governor of North Carolina, happens to be the father-in-law of O. Max Gardner, also a former governor of North Carolina, now leaving his post of undersecretary of the treasury to become ambassador to Great Britain.

A fine public servant, Max Gardner has been in direct charge of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and all income tax cases. And the other day a new case against Tom Coxe, president of the same Coxe Lumber company came before the Bureau of Internal Revenue, this time on a charge of income tax evasion. This time, however, Mr. Coxe's fate was in the hands of a different North Carolinian.

When an underling asked Undersecretary Gardner what should be done regarding Coxe, Gardner replied:

"If he's guilty, prosecute."

The Coxe case has now been sent to the justice department for criminal prosecution.

Nerves Become Taut In Bilbo Controversy.

WASHINGTON—All day long, a faint foggy mist drifted and hovered over Capitol Hill like steam hiding the surface of slowly boiling water.

Sometimes, from only a block or so away, you could scarcely see the glistening dome under which the eightieth congress was convening—under which some senators were challenging the right of The Man from Mississippi to serve again in the highest legislative body in the land.

Then, momentarily, the layers of fog would eddy and thin until you could see the dome again, outlined against a gray and murky sky . . .

It was a strange, dismal, uneasy sort of day, last Friday, but the huge crowd which came to Capitol Hill to witness the battle over the seating of Senator Theodore G. Bilbo was even more strange and uneasy.

Always it is difficult to identify large crowds, both as to makeup and as to mood. When an actor, a peace officer, statesman or a professional soldier learns to sense and properly interpret such shifting sentiment, he almost always is successful in his field.

But it is doubtful if even such veterans of mass moods could have fully defined the impulses and mental undercurrents of the mob which milled in and out of the Capitol building Friday.

One thing only was clear as perhaps the biggest such crowd in history moved restlessly through the mist outside and the statue-lined halls inside the revolving doors:

Most of them were there because of the Bilbo battle . . .

Otherwise, the crowd wouldn't have been so big. Opening session always attracts thousands, but not that many. The changing of the congressional guard—Republican for Democrats after 16 years—accounted for some of its size, but not all.

Also, most of them admitted their main interest centered on the legislative cockfight raging in the senate pit . . .

But beyond that, there was little unanimity or agreement in their jostling, uneasy ranks as they stood in line for hours, just hoping someone might leave the gallery and give them a change to get in.

Where did they come from?

Every state in the Union, every territory, every section was represented by not only public servants but also private citizens—people who came for personal reasons.

Then, what were their reasons?

They were almost as varied as the areas and ideologies represented.

Many were there, of course, because they hate everything Bilbo stands for. Perhaps they were in the majority, but it is doubtful.

For there were plenty there who hate with equal vehemence the motives and plans of those who battle Bilbo—and they didn't come from Mississippi or the South, although those places were represented.

There were others present who consider the race issues unimportant, but the matter of state's rights of prime and personal concern, and still others to whom the political implications of unseating a senator might bring beneficial or bitter results.

The war contract gratuity charges against Bilbo brought some of them, grimly intent on every development which might involve them.

After hours of study, scrutiny, After hours of study, scrutiny and small-talk in its midst, you still saw only a strange, enigmatic sort of mob, shrouded by a mysterious urgency as difficult to pierce as the misty fog which hovered lightly over the hill.

Some of that urgency outside seeped into the senate chamber, where nerves wore thin and one solon thundered:

"It is not Senator Bilbo who is on trial. It is the United States Senate!"

Regardless of his reasons for saying it, that crowd left you with the eerie sensation that what he said was far more right than even he realized.

Not Even "In Bond."

Some little ado has been made in the press about the sorry lot of the good citizens of Cambeltown, Scotland, traditional home of Scotch whisky. Evidently these worthy burghers can't buy a bottle of their own, world-famous product for love nor money. What there is, is in bond.

All of which leaves us profoundly unmoved. If they'd like to start a competition with us in self-pity we can point to the United States of America, traditional home of the automobile, the best-equipped homes and generally the highest standard of living in the world. But unlike the Cambeltowners, we haven't even such things in bond.

This country, with the greatest of all productive capacities, hasn't even kept up with the normal attrition of its consumers' goods. It may be painful for the Scots to be without Scotch, but that is no hardship compared to the Americans without homes, cars and sugar—to name only a few of thousands of shortages.—Columbus Dispatch.

Governor Dewey Appears As "Torch Carrier."

WASHINGTON—Governor Dewey of New York, who aspires to be the next president, all but announced his candidacy openly when he devoted his inaugural address to a philosophical discussion of national and world affairs and ignored state matters.

It was, in its way, a bold performance. But boldness is needed. It was a break with precedent. But some precedent-breaking is needed.

It was, above all, timely, for his party is assuming management of congress, and he had the right to speak as its titular leader.

Something was needed for the occasion that he supplied. The speech had a lift, a spiritual quality and a challenging note that has been missing here as his party's congressional leaders went through the necessary routine of organizing congress.

Buried under that, it is hard for politicians to fight their way out to the light and take a look around their own country and the world—a shuddering enough prospect—and realize the tremendous responsibility the American people have imposed upon them.

Governor Dewey did it for them. He was, for the moment, a young man with a torch. He literally soared at a number of points in his speech, which is all to the good, for it is time for a bit of soaring. As, for example, when he said:

"Man has sprung in a few short years from the relative simplicity of the horse-and-buggy days to the terrifying realization that he is standing in darkness on a narrow ledge, holding in his hands the secret of the universe. One false step and we lose not only the secret, but the world itself. Man has learned how to deal with nearly all nature except human nature. He has explored the universe, but he does not know himself. We are like children who have come into the possession of knowledge without yet having acquired understanding."

The "horse-and-buggy" reference undoubtedly was carefully designed. For there are "horse-and-buggy" attitudes in the Republican party and in its leadership. It is well that Governor Dewey spoke out. It would be well if he and other leaders outside congress should speak out from time to time and exert their influence.

He and Harold Stassen and Earl Warren of California and others represent a great body of rank-and-file Republicans who may find themselves not too well represented among Republicans in congress. That, of course, will show as events develop.

The party in congress is largely dominated by midwest Republicanism which, in the past at least, has been inclined toward hidebound conservatism in domestic affairs and little interest in our responsibilities in the rest of the world.

It is a Republicanism that has not had to stir itself too much, because it has had little competition in that predominately Republican area. For that reason its members here were elected and re-elected through the years and now occupy the key places of power through the seniority rule.

They are more comfortable in what another midwesterner called "normalcy." The times won't permit any of that.

Governor Dewey offered no solutions. But he posed lots of the right questions. And he pronounced a great and simple truth when he said:

"Perhaps the most important need today is to restore man's faith in his fellow men. The first step is to restore the individual's faith in himself."

Racial Issue Disturbs Union of South Africa.

WASHINGTON—The other day in Capetown, South Africa, that shrewd, wily, indomitable old man, Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, made two speeches. One was for world consumption. The other, to a much smaller, private audience, was for home consumption.

To his world audience, Prime Minister Smuts complained in dignified tones about the action of the United Nations assembly in voting approval of a resolution covering a case of racial discrimination in the Union of South Africa.

Smuts declared that the resolution should have been referred to the international court of justice, which would certainly have found that the assembly had no jurisdiction.

For home consumption, Smuts said something quite different. He said that he knew the voters of South Africa stood solidly behind him in his refusal to make any concessions to racial equality. In 20 years, said Smuts, the whole world will face the problem of white versus color which now confronts South Africa.

The racial resolution adopted by the UN assembly has cast a long shadow. In the perspective of the future, it may seem to have been the most important step taken by the new congress of nations.

Here is what lies behind that resolution. In the Union of South Africa are some 220,000 Indians, most of them Hindus. They, or their fathers and mothers before them, came from India as coolies. Of the untouchable caste, they believed they might somewhat better their lot. Some have indeed become prosperous, and even wealthy.

But except for a very small minority who come under an early law, they have no civil rights whatsoever. They cannot vote. They can own property only in certain segregated areas. This has given rise to ever-increasing agitation. The cry of "taxation without representation," out of our own past, resounds anew.

The resolution before the assembly, introduced by the delegation from India, recommended that the Union of South Africa and the government of India get together to work out the problem of the Indian minority. If only by indirection, it was a rebuke to the Union of South Africa.

The United States and Great Britain voted against the resolution on the ground that the UN assembly had no jurisdiction over what was the domestic business of South Africa. But every colored country voted for the resolution. The Moslem countries of the Middle East voted with India.

So did the Soviet Union. That is the significant fact which is certain to have political echoes in every corner of the globe. The USSR's propaganda for racial equality is far and away the most effective weapon in the Soviet propaganda arsenal.

The Russian-haters say this propaganda is meaningless since all races in Russia are equally in subjection. The Russian-idolators paint it into pictures of perfection. The truth lies, in all probability, somewhere between.

But the facts are unimportant so long as millions of oppressed people of color believe that the Soviet Union has established racial equality.

The minister of interior in South Africa has announced that he intends to do nothing about the UN resolution. It is hard to see what could be done in any event, since India has broken off all relations, both trade and diplomatic, with the Union of South Africa.

Smuts is probably right when he says he has had the backing of the voters. There are about 2,000,000 whites and 8,000,000 Negroes in South Africa. The Negroes have about the same status as the Indians. The racial issue tends to submerge even the bitter, long-standing quarrel between Boer and British.

Farmer's Diary: "Vacation Week."

TODAY the four boys and I went to the highest part of the woods, where a dead oak had fallen during early summer. We built a fire, where the first cut was made, and while the boys sawed, I cleared away the sharp brambles, tangled wild grapes, and coiling bitter sweet so that three logs could be cut from the trunk.

Yesterday we hauled straw onto the strawberry patch and scattered it evenly on the frozen ground. It was cold and light snow was falling. The tractor and trailer, as they moved along, sounded hollow, as though on a bridge. The old strawpile was wet below, and steamed after each lifted forkful.

The day before yesterday, it rained. Between showers, we sawed and split firewood, in the ell of the house. The smaller boys corded a great pile in the kitchen corner, near the stove. This marks the last of the old beech we worked on last winter. The blocks are knotty and close knit, but each piece is solid. During cold winter evenings the burning beech lends fragrant odorous warmth to the kitchen. Cold rain, sleet and snow blast vainly upon the metal roof above.

Tomorrow we will butcher. The old iron kettle is set upon its tripod, and kindling is ready. The two hogs browse by the little brook in their pen, while wind and snow pass just above the low bank where they contentedly root for worms.

Cold weather is welcome in our valley. Snow is crusted on the hills and ice is clear and smooth on Honey Creek's quieter stretches. Three pairs of sharp bright skates attached to shoes, and the boys, happy and warm and eager, glide down stream to the riffles and up to the place where an elm trunk has fallen across the current.

There a downy woodpecker listens and bores into the dozy side of the log, while sounding his pleasant note, that has much the quality of a robin's chirp.

While early dusk moves in upon the cloudy landscape, the boys change their shoes and start homeward, shouting, quarreling, chasing one another about snowy fields. Time is not important. Unnecessary steps are not considered; running is just a natural form of youthful expression. The living happy present is all that matters. In frolicsome mood they attack their evening chores, racing to see who will finish first, but the quality of their labor suffers.

Each year brings changes in young outlook. Now Indian and cowboy, gun and holster play, is superseded by high school sports, for the oldest lad to whom Santa brought a razor. All four push me about, and I shove them along for the sake of the game—but they come back for more. Companionship like this is to me a precious thing. Sometimes I can scarcely believe my own good fortune.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, January 7.

Here are most propitious auguries for growth, expansion, enlarged scope for progress, preferment and the substantial cooperation of those in power and influential places It would be wise to confer with these and with all friendly associates, heeding their advice and reasonable and sagacious direction, since the personal planetary influences rush matters to rash and hazardous crises. Adhere to facts and refrain from impulsive and hot-headed moves for good results. This is also true in private affairs, in which there are signs of benefic reactions.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of the fulfillment of their most cherished hopes, desires and objectives, in the financial, business, professional, social and affectional life all of which are under flourishing and most fertile prospects. The assistance of those in high places is a prime factor in promoting such ideals, as the personal judgment is apt to be reckless, tumultuous and not to be relied on for lucrative and gratifying results. Great things are in sight for controlled and rational conduct.

STATE CLOSES BOOK ON FAIR

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio's the book Saturday on the 1946 1946 state fair, the first held since 1941, was the most profitable in history.

Bryan P. Sandles, fair director, released a stack of statistics showing that the 1946 fair, which was "thrown together at the last minute" after the army air forces vacated the midtown grounds here in April, took in $422,961 and cost $262,801 for a net profit of $160,160.

The net, achieved despite a federal tax bill of $57,000, compared with $13,589 in pre-war 1941, when no federal tax was required.

Part of the higher net came from a sharp drop in premium payments — $123,338 in 1941 to $87,386 in 1946, but almost all other outlays were up sharply.

Sandles predicted that the 1947 fair, to be held Aug. 23-29, would come close to the 1946 figures.

"Even though it won't come after a five-year wait," he said, "it will go over with plenty of new stuff."

Gate admissions last August totaled $258,863, as compared with $115,951 in 1941 and $44,899 in the depression year of 1933. Grand stand admissions almost doubled, hitting $72,516 against $37,514 in 1941 and $11,629 in 1934, another depression year. Concessions, which brought $29,937 in 1941, brought $38,827 in 1946.

Shelby Police Answer 1,087 Calls In 1946

SHELBY — Shelby police answered 1,087 calls or complaints during 1946, including investigation of 104 traffic accidents, according to the annual report compiled by Patrolman Jack Coleman.

Property valued at $6,012 was stolen here last year. Police were able to recover $4,340 worth of the stolen property, leaving a net loss of $1,672. In addition, the Shelby police were able to recover $1,800 worth of property stolen in other cities. Police Chief Leroy Coffey revealed.

Number of automobiles tagged for traffic violations rose from 387 in 1945 to 463 last year. Police made 277 arrests during the year. Only one car out of the six stolen here last year was not recovered.

Oldest Hartman Employe Has Held Job With Company Since He Was 18

By AL PREYER

At a foreman friend's suggestion, Lewis Cashell, 46, upon graduation from Mansfield high school in 1918, went to work on the assembly line at the Hartman Electric Manufacturing companuy.

Today, after 28 years, Cashell is assembly foreman and employe with the longest consecutive record at the Hartman plant.

"IT WAS MY FIRST JOB OUT of school," Cashell related. "I never figured that it would be permanent. But I found the work interesting and my progress satisfactory—so here I am today.

"Incidentally," he added, "this job has taught me something that I think the restless youth of today might profit by. In getting a job, try first of all to get something you like. Then, if things go wrong at first stick it out—that's most important. Too may fellows give up a job before they know whether they are at fault or it's the wrong job for them.

"One of the outstanding changes here has been the increase in the number of women employes on the assembly line," Cashell pointed out. "When I began on the line there were no women. Now they're mostly women, and they do a good job.

"MY HOBBIES ARE WORKING on my small farm where I specialize in nothing but tinkering around and relaxation," Cashell said.

Cashell's wife and three children also enjoy the life on their Cook road farm, he said.

Cashell has been active in civic projects, serving for 11 years as superintendent of the First Lutheran church Sunday school, and as president of the Mansfield-Shelby Foreman's club in 1945-46.

Bucyrus Writer Hits Headlines

BUCYRUS—Headline news concerning the ultimatum delivered by the Russians at Dairen to a U. S. ship in port there was of special interest to Bucyrians since the foreign correspondent who "broke" the story was William H. Newton, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Berry, Park avenue.

The Scripps Howard correspondent was married to the Berry's daughter, Nell, 11 years ago while both were located in Columbus. Mrs. Newton spent considerable time in Bucyrus with her parents during the war when her husband was on duty with an army intelligence corps in Italy and France. He was recently sent to China, his second assignment there. Mrs. Newton is now in Florida with relatives.
